Soberton and Newtown millennium walk

Distance: 10 miles

Postcode for start: SO32 3PF

History

Soberton was in the 6th century when the area was invaded by the Jutes of Denmark called 'Sud' (meaning south) bere (meaning grange) tun (meaning farm). The Danish tribe that invaded this part of Hampshire were called the Meon. The River Meon takes its name from them. The village was formed due to the ever growing size of South Grange Farm.

Directions

Turn right at the road, after Killane Stud take second footpath on right (concrete lane). Follow the lane which opens into the drive of a large house, keep right and take the path through woods for approximately 500m to a stile. Cross the corner of the field to a further stile. Continue on to Ingoldfield Lane, turn left. Follow road to the crossroads, turn left to Newtown Church.

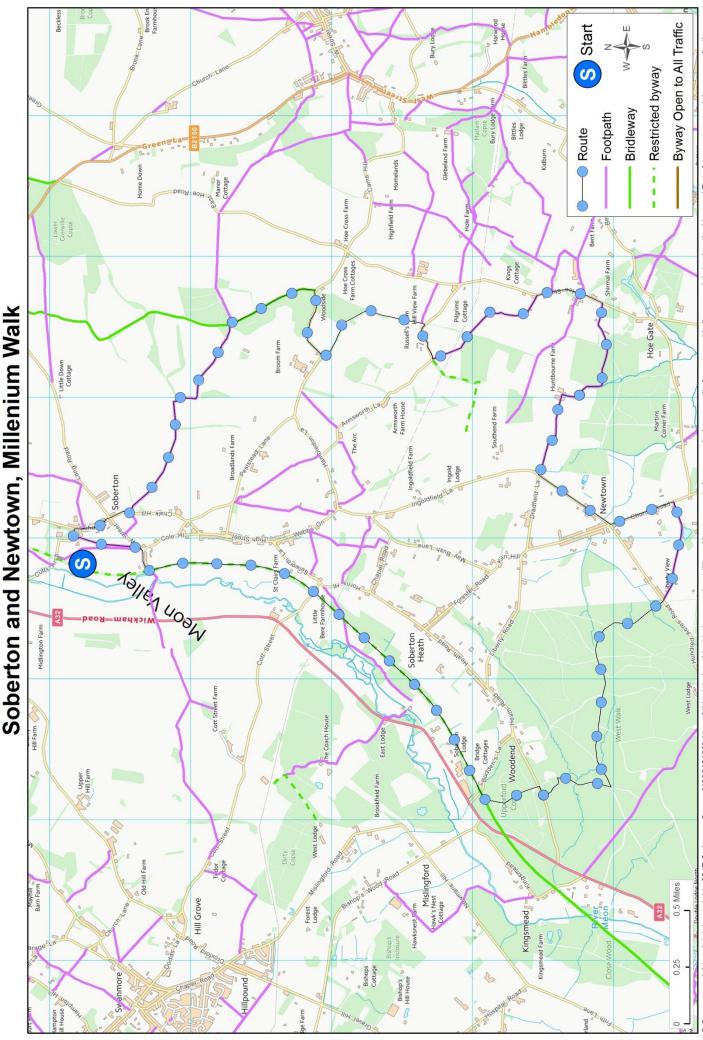

From Holy Trinity Church turn right and after 100m turn right onto a gravel path. Follow the path to a stile. Cross over into field to the next stile and continue over stile. Cross field to a stile in the opposite corner, continue ahead passing through several gates and over stiles.

After last garden gate path follow the ditch, exiting at Hundred Acres Road. Cross road to West Walk. Follow the track through woodland for about 1 mile. Ignore cross path junctions and take the marked path to the right by a fenced pond (wartime bomb hole). Keep straight on and across a car park to Stoneover Road. Cross over and through Upperford Copse.

Follow the main track ignoring any cross paths, exit copse onto disused railway line. Turn right under a bridge and continue for 1km/0.5 mile, immediately after next bridge turn left and up steps to the road. Turn right, after approximately 50m turn right along a footpath passing a tennis court and leading towards the river, bear right and down wooden steps back onto disused railway line.
